

THE CASPARI CENTER PRESENTS

HOW DID THE BIBLE COME TO US?

Part II: From Hebrew to Greek

FRIDAY, SEPT. 13 AT 10:00, 55 HANEVI'IM ST.

Have you ever wondered how the Word of God came to us? It didn't fall from heaven as a complete book, but was the result of a long and complex process. This is Part II of a two-part seminar. In Part I, we covered the Hebrew Old Testament.

In this second seminar, we will focus on the origins of the Greek Scriptures and Christianity. Why, when, and how did Jewish communities switch from Hebrew to Greek? Was this also the case for the early followers of Jesus of Nazareth? What did they write, and what were the implications of their writings for the birth of this group? When did the Jesus movement become independent of Judaism?

Join us for a fascinating seminar!

PROGRAM

10:00-10:15	Introduction
10:15-11:30	"The Birth of the Greek Bible", followed by Q&A
11:30-12:00	Light lunch
12:00-13:15	"From Judaism to Christianity: the Parting of the Ways", followed by Q&A

We will serve coffee and a light lunch. RSVP before Tuesday, September 10th by email: volunteer@caspari.com, or phone: 02-6233926. Cost: 50 NIS

TEACH // EQUIP // SUPPORT

About the lecturer: Prof. Dr. habil. Michael Langlois holds a PhD and Habilitation in Historical and Philological Sciences from the Sorbonne. He teaches as tenured Associate Professor at the University of Strasbourg and is an IUF and HCAS fellow. In Jerusalem, he works closely with the French Research Center (CRFJ) and the École Biblique (EBAF).

www.caspari.com